I am using WebClient for this. My code is like this

```
HttpRequest request = (HttpRequest)WebRequest.Create(""); request.Headers[HttpRequestHeader.Accept] = "application/json"; request.Method = "POST"; using (var requestStream = request.GetRequestStream()) { // Post data to the API using (var streamWriter = new StreamWriter(requestStream)) { streamWriter.Write(JsonConvert.SerializeObject(myData)); } } HttpResponse response = (HttpResponse)request.GetResponse();
```

 How can I make the WebClient write the data to a file instead of a streamwriter? When I send this data using curl I get a 200 response but I don't know how to convert this into C# or any other language. Thanks A: You can use the RequestStream property.
