Reasons to consider the use of Virtual PC with Windows 10: The creation of Windows 10 by the Microsoft means that it is an essential element of modern computers and has become a crucial driver of user behavior and adoption. There are many reasons why one would want to use Windows 10. One reason for this is that Windows 10 is fully compatible with Windows 7 and 8. Here are the main advantages of using Windows 10: Improved Security Windows 10 is one of the most secure systems that you will ever use. It uses an advanced user authentication process that uses a hardware token to ensure that the computer has been used by the rightful owner. Powerful Modern User Interface The user interface (UI) of Windows 10 is very impressive. This does not seem like the Windows 8 or Windows 8.1. The new Windows 10 UI is designed with a touch interface in mind. This means that you can make use of some of the finger movements to interact with Windows 10. Many New Features There are many new features added to Windows 10 that are specifically designed for beginners and developers. Here are some of the most popular new features: Mail This is a new application designed by Microsoft for sending and receiving emails. It is the evolution of Windows Live Mail. Start Menu This is a new user interface for starting Windows 10. This means that you can start Windows 10 with just a single click. System Tray This is another new feature that makes Windows 10 so innovative. This is a feature that can be used to display icons in the System Tray. It can be used to show the date and the time of the computer. It can also be used to display notifications such as e-mail messages, messages from Skype, messages from IM, etc. Windows 10 Professional In addition to the free Windows 10, you can also buy Windows 10 Professional. This is a more expensive version of Windows 10. The Windows 10 Professional has some of the additional features that Windows 10 Home lacks. Windows 10 Enterprise You can also buy Windows 10 Enterprise. This

Click on the "Download" button above to download MadPassExt from Softonic's website. Alternatively, you can download the file from this link or this mirror. Windows uses the Data Protection API (DPAPI) to secure stored information and sensitive data, such as passwords and credentials in general, private keys, and other confidential data either generated by the operating system or by an application. The master DPAPI key is generated for a Microsoft account that logs in with Windows and the information is stored locally in the "AppData" folder. You might need this key if you are trying to recover passwords previously encrypted with DPAP, but getting it might be tricky. Luckily, there are simple solutions that can help you out. Simple GUI to extract the DPAPI password. Microsoft Account DPAPI Password Extractor (or, in short, MadPassExt), is a simple software utility designed to help you get the unique DPAPI password generated for your Microsoft account. The application requires no installation and is ready to use as soon as you double click on the main executable file. The main window is simple, betraying the fact that the application was designed with functionality in mind, rather than looks. In fact, using it is pretty simple, as detailed below. The account cache file or folder is optional. You are prompted to fill in the password of your Microsoft account. There is also a field where you can provide the Microsoft account cache file or folder, but this piece of information is optional. Usually, this path is "C:WindowsSystem32configsystemprofileAppDataLocalMicrosoftWindowsCloudAPCacheMicrosoftAccount[Account ID]CacheCacheData". Leaving this field blank instructs MadPassExt to find this path automatically. MadPassExt starts decrypting the cache file. Note that this application requires administrator privileges to work, otherwise you might get an error. Conveniently enough, there is a button to re-launch the tool as an administrator. Get the DPAPI password with ease. Although simple, MadPassExt comes in handy when you want to obtain the DPAPI password associated to your Microsoft account. With the click of a button, you can copy the password to your clipboard and use it wherever you need to.
