I need to customize my x axis to display how many values are in the displayed range. So for example if my data range is 0-15 it should show 15 values on the x axis. The data is dynamic and I calculate the values using a plugin. I tried several things but couldnt get any working. For example I thought maybe somehow I can get the values of the axis and calculate the total number of values to the axis. A: The chart object has a property named plotOptions.series.series.xAxis.categories will provide you the number of categories you have. An example: var options = { chart: { renderTo: 'container' }, title: { text: 'xAxis categories' } }.
