As we all know the Highway code is very important because as a driver it is your responsibility to make sure you do not end up in a situation where you or another road user is not safe. The highway code is a concise and easily accessible guide to that responsibility. Your copies of the highway code are available here, you could also obtain the US version online here. The version of the US highway code online is available for free here and the one for UK is here and the one for Canada is here. Going on line for the US edition is you a little more comfortable with the internet and you're a licence holder, you can try one of the many other free sites with limited information on the highway code. Failing that you can go to the official site if you are in the US here or the country specific site if you're in UK here or Canada here. The highway code is a legal document that must be fully understood by any vehicle driver on British, Canadian or US roads. By not understanding the highway code and following poorly written rules, motorists put themselves and the others at risk of a crash. Therefore, in accordance with section 48(2) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, this notice is given for the purpose of making clear what the regulations are and the penalties for infractions. If you should be charged with an offense arising out of the neglect of any of the following instructions, you could face a fine up to £20,000 and up to six months' imprisonment. This section contains the provisions requiring you to wear a seatbelt when riding in your car, when the seatbelt is properly fastened. It also contains provisions that govern the use of your mobile phone while riding in a car and the rules governing the speed that you are driving your car at. You can also obtain a copy of the highway code for home use from the official site here. If you have any inquiries about this note the comments section is open and I can answer your queries to the best of my ability and if you really have an issue or a problem as most of you do, I can also recommend the phone number of the police. You should understand that any race driver, truck driver or any race car driver needs to understand the highway code in detail
