Be Beach Money shows you that the freedom you desire is closer than you have . Beach Money shows you that the freedom you desire is closer than you have .Q: Why does  $P$  happen to be a smooth surface? I have problems to understand the question in the title: Why does the parabolic subgroup  $P \subset G$  of a linear algebraic group  $G$  have to be smooth? If  $G$  is semisimple, then we can take the connected component of  $P$ , and it is smooth. The key in the proof is that  $P \times P$  has finitely many components and that one of them is  $P \times P$ . I also assume that  $P$  is a subgroup of  $G$ . A: I think the true source of the problem is that most proofs of this fact about the F-radical of a linear algebraic group begin by assuming that the group  $G$  is reductive, although you do not say that. The idea is that an F-radical of a reductive group  $G$  has to be a smooth irreducible subvariety of  $G$  and that an irreducible smooth subvariety of  $G$  is a subgroup of  $G$ . The failure to prove the general case is seen from the reduction to the semisimple case: consider  $GL_2$ , with subgroup  $P$  of diagonal matrices. The variety  $P$  is irreducible, but it is not a subgroup of  $G$ . (It is isomorphic to  $P$  by the adjoint map.) The semisimple case is treated first in several textbooks because it
