1. Install and run Fantasy Grounds (or a trial version if you have it). 2. Download the free "Fantasy Grounds - B10: White Worm of Weston" campaign from the 5E Library here: 3. Open Fantasy Grounds, log into your account and follow the prompts to load the campaign from the 5E Library. 4. The Game Master will give the players their instructions, set the background and some plot spoilers, to help you out but it is perfectly fine to go through the adventure without their help. You can start at any point in the adventure. Read the scenario outline on the way in. 5. Once everyone has a copy of the campaign, it is best to have everyone read a short description of the main character or characters before beginning. 6. Select the "Submit a New Game" button to begin. This will begin the execution of the campaign. 7. Each player should have a copy of the handouts (GD Star Wars Guide to Gamemastering as well as the Groucho Marx Handout which is a list of NPCs and locations in the handout), and read the scenario before beginning. 8. In game, make sure to assign names to each of the 8 options provided at the beginning of the adventure. 9. If you would like to have one or more campaign encounters, you may do so at this point before the adventure begins. Otherwise the adventure will begin with the 1st option. 10. Each player must then choose a character, follow the instructions on the Character Sheet, and then choose an option. 11. Once all the players have chosen an option, move ahead to the next step. 12. While the players read and ponder the options, the Game Master will do the necessary prep work to set up your game before telling the players that the adventure begins. 13. Roll the dice and follow the instructions on the character sheets. If you would like one or more campaign encounters, you can add them at this point. Otherwise, move on to Step 14. 14. When all the characters are active, choose a strategy and continue on with the adventure. 15. After your PCs defeat the monster they are tasked with, have

nastics International (GFII) World Cup season, usually called the “Asia-Oceania Region” will be held at Gimcheon, Republic of Korea. Representing Korea are Athletics Association for the Republic of Korea and Rong Chol (spelled as “Sin Chol” in the standard Korean alphabet). Some gymnasts have withdrawn or decided not to attend this year’s GFII World Cup. Of the 10 gymnasts, 5 were from Korea’s national teams in 2018 Worlds in Germany and Uzbekistan. In addition, the following was included from the rest of the world: 5 from Russia (Gaia Kapranos, Yulia Koiko, Nadezhda Shvetsova, Olga Zabikin, and Valeriia Shvabri) 2 from Ukraine (Ekaterina Kupriyanova and Denys Astapenko) 2 from Hong Kong (Cheng Jing) and 2 from China (Xiao Jinyuan and Cheng Wen). In 2018, it was Beijing that hosted GFII World Cup. The main gymnastics arena was located at Beijing’s Chaoyang District, this year Jeongseon Gymnastics Center will host GFII World Cup (in addition to other important competitions such as WAGGGS Asian Cup and GOGCA Cup). GFII World Cup is also a fine opportunity for athletes in other disciplines to travel and compete with world-class gymnasts. Nonetheless, GFII World Cup 2019 at Gimcheon will be less crowded, a smaller competition of world-level gymnasts will definitely challenge the competitors. I am interested in watching Ahn Hee-min’s 2018 Olympic gold medal performance, but this year the gymnastics competition is in Jeongseon and I am not able to watch the event live on television. Hee-min is of Korean descent and has participated in GFII World Cup since 2013. In September 2018, when Hee-min participated in Shanghai GFII World Cup, he has recently retired from competitive gymnastics and currently live in South Korea. The previous GFII World Cup, which is the 2008 edition in Beijing was also held in September in China. Each participating country, selected one gymnast for each discipline and the selected gymnasts competed in the playoffs. GFII World Cup is actually being hosted by GOGCA under

ISA leadership and supported by SEVAG Gymnastics Federation. GFII World Cup is

Cells are creatures of impossible variety, they only live for once. Each one is unique in a way, that no other cell's can ever be. Every one of them is unique. That is why we asked ourselves, how to make a game that will make us remember all that? The questions we have asked ourselves will lead to a story about death, rejection, and survival. Everything has a meaning. Even if it is some random cell, it is talking about us. We are the cells. And that is the message behind "Acell". Everything that will be seen on the ground is the reflection of an object above us. The environment that surrounds us is a living, changing thing. It is not the place of garbage, we do not need the place of garbage. We don't need to destroy our planet, it is not that important. This is a place of life. This is a place of imagination and mystery. A place where we are able to talk to everything and to everything. That is why we are so strict when it comes to how the environment is looked. The game is an interactive adventure, that is also an interactive experience. It is about the interaction with the other creatures. It is about living together with them and to live with them and to live side by side. But what should be taken from this? What is the goal of this? We need to remember that we are cells. We need to respect each other, like we are one body. We need to evolve, we need to stay alive. We need to remind ourselves of that to become better. "Acell" is the reflection of an entire life. It is an interactive poem, where all things are able to talk to us and to us. It is a place where our will becomes stronger, our character becomes stronger. It is a place that has no bounds. It is not a place for sports, it is a place where you will cry, you will laugh, you will think, you will love. A place where we are able to share, you are able to be alone, but not for long. A place where it is the time to evolve, to become better. Our mission is to see the galaxy that is unseen. To see this amazing world, that we are surrounded by and that surrounds us. To take this out of our mind and to make it real. To show you this wonderful world that we have forgotten. To make everything as it was back
