So my class has an instance variable which is a pointer to an instance of an object that is being constructed at runtime. My question is, is it ok to perform instantiation methods on this instance variable? A: Yes. You can do it. This is, of course, rather controversial, since it leads to code like a->doSomething(); // which will be a bit weird. It also leads to... a = new A(); a->doSomething(); // which will also be weird. But if the class has a constructor which takes parameters, it'll be completely fine: A* a = new A(5); a->doSomething(); // that's fine So, yes, you can. What is the meaning of life? For these little robots it has always been to solve the problems their creator built for them. Their creator is however long gone, and is not providing them any problems to solve. What do they do then? They created their own problems in the form of puzzles! Use your wits to overcome these puzzles and help the robots find meaning in their lives once again! Travel back in time with each playthrough and play cooperatively. Or challenge yourself and progress at your own pace. It's up to you! Your decisions will determine the path your character takes through a series of puzzling scenarios. Each character has his/her own goal, which will guide you and your friends through the different game worlds. How to Play The Robot Chips are in the bottom right of each screen. Pick up the robot chips to enter new areas, and avoid the robot factories to re-enter the same areas. To play cooperatively you must share the same robot chips. Turn the robot chips in multiple ways to solve any puzzle! By purchasing this game you are able to download and play this game in multiplayer mode. The greatest puzzle game ever. Alot of the other people playing this don't understand the puzzles. If you know the solution to an easy puzzle then please get a life and find something to do with your time and stop wasting everybody else's. Also stop trying to protect other players who have a solution. If we are playing the same puzzle it does not matter who solves it first, just enjoy the puzzle. This game is amazing. The puzzles are made with intelligence and some are a bit too easy, but if you've played some of the other amazing puzzle games then this game has nothing to offer. Most of the puzzles make you think about a min-max strategy, and you know the solution already. If you are looking for a puzzle game that doesn't require strategy this is for you. This game is about teaming up and saving each other if you are in trouble. If you want to play a solitare puzzle game, this is not for you. I loved this game, for anyone reading this its based on yahoo mail and what not so when you get a message you press 1. But the thing is there are some people that have 50 people on yahoo mail it will not let you press 1 for a message the game want to be completely done with. I think maybe a way to skip to the end in the game without any trouble just another
