Field of the Invention The invention is directed to a procedure for the evaluation of an object. 2. Description of the Prior Art Various procedures for the evaluation of objects are known, for example weighing, summing and amplitude and frequency analysis, spectrum analysis, etc. In each case, during evaluation of the object certain variables which can be determined are taken into account. The evaluated variable, i.e., the measured value, is then compared with a standard value for the respective variable. If the measured value differs from the standard value by too great a degree, the object is rejected. Although the above-described known procedures are generally reliable, they are not sufficiently powerful in recognizing objects which differ from the standard value for the respective variable by degrees which are too small to be safely rejected.

Q: Linking boost libraries for OSX I am making a GUI app using PySide. In order to use the Qt Quick UI I need to link the boost library. I have the following configuration: OSX 10.9 Python 2.7.6 PySide 2.5.1 boost 1.55.0 The command I am running is: `g++ -I /Applications/MacOSX.app/Contents/Developer/Platforms/MacOSX.platform/Developer/SDKs/MacOSX10.9.sdk/usr/local/Cellar/pyqt/5.3.0/lib/python2.7/site-packages/PyQt5/uic/pyqt4.so main.cpp -o /Users/dani/Desktop/gui`. But when I run the code it crashes with a error message: `dyld: Library not loaded: /opt/local/lib/libboost_system.dylib Referenced from: /opt/local/lib/libboost_filesystem.dylib Reason: image not found` I'm a bit lost on this. I made sure that I have the proper boost library installed with `brew install boost`, but its not working. Any help? A: Add the path of the directory where `libboost_system` and `libboost_filesystem` are (you have to create the directory `boost_system` and `boost_filesystem`).
