* Adobe Dreamweaver: A web design program, Dreamweaver works with page templates and code-editing features. However, the company also offers tutorials for designing a website with Photoshop. * Adobe Fireworks: Used for creating web graphics, Fireworks includes a built-in vector graphics editor with many tools for creating images, overlays, and objects. Although Fireworks is less expensive than Photoshop, its design tools are aimed more for creative, visually oriented designers, whereas Photoshop is more suited to architects, musicians, photographers, and others whose images are more solid in nature. * Adobe Illustrator: Used primarily for creating artwork and other vector graphics and animations, Illustrator, also from Adobe, offers many different tools that enable you to create and edit vector graphics with great control and precision. * Adobe Photoshop: The most widely used photo manipulation and editing program, Photoshop offers a variety of tools that allow you to alter any digital image.

While some of its tools are similar to Adobe's other graphics programs, Photoshop is very powerful and versatile and is far more intuitive than its closest competitor, Adobe Illustrator. To get the most out of Photoshop, learn to use it with each of its tools and layers. (Check out Chapter 6 for a primer on the tools.)

values of the two previous checks. Each of the three conditions has a form, and each form is supposed to come from a different model:

def user_group_form(forms, instance, *args, kwargs):
    group = instance.group
    if group in ('A', 'B'): # first condition if group in ('C'): # second condition if group in ('D', 'E'): # third condition form = forms.GroupGroupForm(instance=instance, data=request.POST or None)
    return form
def stock_form(forms, instance, *args, kwargs):
    // stock calculation form, which is more complex
    return form
def new_item_form(forms, instance, *args, kwargs):
    // new item form

This is fine in the case of the first condition where both forms are the same (i.e. both of them are just a `GroupGroupForm()`), but it is not fine in the case of the third condition. The data argument in that case does not contain any form, so I get an error. Is there a way to do it? A: You can use `common_widgets` in that case:

from django.forms.widgets import CommonPasswordInput from django.forms.models import modelform_factory def
