This proposal is a response to the need for a normative database of social interaction. This is a preliminary stage in the development of a comprehensive theory of the structure of family interaction. Data were collected by the PI from a carefully selected sample of parents, their children, and their children's teachers. Parents and teachers were studied within 48 hours of a major transition in the life of the family and measurements were taken at that time. Children were studied between 2 and 5 years of age, beginning when the child was at least 18 months old. In addition to collecting data, several ratings were made on the conceptually relevant variables (affect, communication, positive and negative affect). On these ratings, the index child was compared to the peer children. A second study will collect data on the same subjects for a period of up to 2 years.
