A new analysis by the Daily Caller News Foundation's Luke Rosiak found evidence of an "unprecedented smear campaign" by the Clintons and the Democratic National Committee against Judicial Watch — a conservative watchdog group that has taken on Clinton scandals such as the Uranium One deal and the infamous pay-to-play scandal. Rosiak's analysis found that the Clinton team has "sought to intimidate" the conservative group and smear its leaders. However, Judicial Watch's dogged efforts have provided the public with major documents on the Clinton pay-to-play scandal. Rosiak published his analysis over the weekend. "After spending millions of dollars to obtain the FBI's investigation file of the Clinton Foundation and the investigative materials it produced, Judicial Watch has compiled more than 2,200 pages of documents documenting how the Clinton machine used the email scandal as a pretext to try and bully the FBI into putting the kibosh on the investigation,” he wrote. He also cited a 2015 email between the Clinton team and a longtime Clinton adviser, Bruce Lindsey, which showed that the Clinton team likely used the scandal to fire a staff member who was a whistleblower on the scandal: “It is likely that U/I won’t get fired in an FBI investigation as will we,” a former State Department official noted in a 2015 email to Bruce Lindsey, who was a longtime Clinton adviser. “But they will try the long and courtly route of getting a witness to testify and threaten and cajole. I predict Mrs. Clinton will apologize and they will move on.” Lindsey fired back: “The FBI is trying to get back to the office. I think the only way to stop them is to get involved in the process and see if we can get them to investigate. We need to go back and push.” Rosiak notes that Judicial Watch has taken on many different scandals during the Clinton presidency, and that the group has provided major evidence that the Clintons have done shady e79caf774b
