There are six brush settings that are accessed through the Brush window. The most basic brush settings are Size, Shape, Saturation and Luminance. For more advanced brushes, such as Paint Brush and Airbrush, you can adjust settings like Gradient, Size, Opacity and Brush Guides to create effects. The Text tool allows you to create text. You can adjust the typeface, size, alignment, and color of the text. The Pen tool allows you to create freeform shapes. You can add Paint, Pattern and Gradient effects to the brush. There are also Eraser, Color Replacement, and Rounded Rectangle brushes. You can add text and graphics to images using the Smart Object. You can place text and graphics inside of a selection and then apply the Smart Object to the graphic or image. The Clone Stamp is a tool that allows you to copy pixels from one area of the image and paste them into another. The Filter Gallery allows you to filter images using filters from the original Adobe Photoshop (PSD) files. This makes it much faster to apply effects using the adjustments found in Photoshop. Filters are organized into sub-groups called dialogs. You can toggle through the dialogs and apply an effect to a particular layer. For example, you can create vintage and retro effects, and you can also choose a different filter effect than the one you used previously. You can also use the Filter Gallery to apply multiple effects to one layer. You can apply a vintage effect, then a vintage/glamour effect, and then combine these two effects. The Adjustments panel contains a number of adjustments, such as Levels, Curves, Color Balance, Burn and Dodge, Multiply and Soft Light. You can adjust the settings in the Adjustments panel using a slider bar, which allows you to make changes quickly. You can also change the view of the Adjustments panel using the Preview panel at the bottom of the Toolbox. In the text options, you can change the text size, typeface and location. You can also apply a background image using the Fill or Gradient box. You can then color the text using the text box. You can also format text by choosing from the Fonts and Style menus. You can then apply a set of alignment marks to the selected text, which helps you center it correctly. There are also several options for text including Paragraph, Textured, and Draw. The authors discovered that faculty were open to developing strategies to teach with these student populations, that it was not clear what is taught in physical education courses, and that an ongoing assessment of the student and changes in teaching strategies based on the change of the student would be helpful.Q: How can I add another radio button to modal?
