>.[Abraham] of the leeches, had yet six sons, let us then give them their names: "Behold, my scepters will be, six in all, to whom I will give my power over leeches; and they shall divide my kingdom among them."
"[Her] father knew that his death was at hand, but her mother was unaware of it: wherefore Abraham kept watch over the door of Sarah his wife, until he might awake her up from sleep and tell her of his sake. And he said unto her, "Look now, the young men of the city are gathered together, and the men of Midian, to wash themselves; for they have purged their clothes, and bathed them in the pool of Siloam, which is by them on the way up to Jotbah."
[Her father] went up unto his house and sent to call Jacob his son, and he went down unto him: and he kissed him, and wept upon his neck, and he said, "Thou art my brother;

in fact thou art my flesh and my flesh is thine, for m[e]." [Her father] said, "I know now that God is [m]ighty to [me] for all the generations of the world; seeing that God has shortened my days." (9) And Abraham said unto him, "But if thou wilt die, my lord, without issue being born of the maiden, still would I serve my lord [m] by my hand." And Abraham prayed to God, and God did unto him according to the binding of his oath; and he gave [Her] betrothed Isaac [his son], his son in law. "And he built an altar unto the Lord that [was] on the threshing-floor of Machpelah, the belonging of [his] father, Abraham, in the field of Moriah, which [was] before Mamre, and in the square of the city at a distance of three score and five [far]s, [as] the altar, wherein [was] his lamb; for [he] burnt [his son] and called upon the name of the Lord. And it was told to

Abraham [after he was] ninety-nine years old, [at] which time also Sarah
