2009 Sale.Q: Grails Spring-Security integration
I am new to Grails and I wanted to integrate Spring Security with my Grails application. After reading a few tutorials, I tried to create a simple grails application that could be integrated with Spring Security and got that working. I have a simple controller action defined as follows:

def index() { // username and password come from the parameters // these are the users from my db. springSecurityService // is an instance of a service I made that is injected with the user details // via a constructor in my Service class SpringSecurityService.withLock(springSecurityService)

.someMethod() } Grails version: 3.0.4
Spring Security: 3.2.6 When I start the application, I get the following error: Could not find matching constructor for: org.grails.springsecurity.domain.Account.groovy.SpringSecurityService. Use PropertiesBuilder.@entry or Properties.@entry instead. Is there a solution to this problem? A: Grails Security version 2.0+, uses the new UserRole and PermissionDomain classes. For example in SecurityConfig.groovy you could define your own springSecurityService by simply defining your own UserRole and Permission:

class MySecurityService{ def springSecurityService static constraints = { springSecurityService(validator: { val, userRole, permission -> val.save(failOnError: true) return!permission.codename.in('HIBERNATE_LOCK',
'READ_UNLOCK_DATA', 'CREATE_TASK',
'UPDATE_TASK', 'DEL_TASK',
'ASSIGN_TASK_POINTS', 'DEL_PERMISSION',

'ADD_PERMISSION', 'COPY_PERMISSION',
'CHANGE_c6a93da74d'
