background : i love the recto cabs, i love the recto (and for the record : our customers love them as well). they are a great low-end cab with a gorgeous sound when the wood is perfectly dry and there is a good coat of lacquer. but like everything, they are not perfect (although they are the best). in this post, i have my impressions on the mesa recto v30s speakers when they are very dry. when i bought them, i was struck by the accuracy : i loved the sound and the feel of the speakers. the problem is that i also loved the feel of the cheap v30s and i didn't wanna do a big stereo conversion so i paid for the v30s from a premium speaker store in france. and it turns out they are very good speakers. the problem was i had to live with the cheap feel. so i got the recto v30s : made-in-china speakers with a very distinct sound : it is more "square", metallic, with a typical v30 sound, and with a lot of "hard" distortion. the high's are a bit "car-like" in the sense that they lack punch and feel flat. however, the low's are quite good, with the sweet tone of the speakers. and i am happy with them! i mean seriously, how can you not like the sound? the bass is not just tight and punchy, it is so detailed that you end up listening to the speakers only. everything is there : kick, bass, mids, the highs, the lows. the mids are good too (not amazing, but good). the mids are very soft and the high's are very "heavy", not like the ir academic model ; they are clean, with some attack, very good. the bass is tight, nothing loose, but a bit "resonant", definitely more than the typical v30. the bass is tight and punchy. the highs are just unparallel and the mids is excellent. the sound is not exactly mesa's, but the way the audio is processed, the

fasteners, the character, everything is very mesa-like. the treble is a bit weak (the mesa v30s are very strong), but the bass is really strong so the treble doesn't bother me too much. i love the sound of the recto v30s when they are dry.

a couple of years ago, mesa debuted a new crossover and speaker cabinet. their sound has never been better and they have become a part of the mesa sound family.

their signature sound is the unique mesa sound. they have the mesa full solid wood cabinet and mesa's signature mesa white paint. the recto cabs are mesa's classic speakers that are known for having that "mesa tone." they are mesa's most iconic speakers and are favorites among guitarists. the new recto cabinets are mesa's signature speakers. they have a full solid wood cabinet that gives you a warm tone with a tight low end.

the recto cabs are mesa's classic speakers that are known for having that "mesa tone. free ir's from mesa boogie and mark i are a great resource for those of you who are interested in learning to mix and produce. for those of you who are looking for a set of irs just to play around with. i've included a few that i found on the internet. also don't let the rt8x10 in the title fool you, they are more than just a 8x10 cab. some of them are on the heavy side and some aren't. don't let that fool you. if you've ever tried to run a speaker cabinet through a tube amplifier or tube pre-amp to get more volume, then you're probably familiar with this ir style. here's a good set of ir's for anyone looking for free bass cab irs. i haven't used these but they seem to be in a good format. i also have some ir's for the rockman and mark i bass cabs. i haven't used these either. once again, i've included some ir's that i downloaded from the internet. i believe this is the only place on the internet where you can download these ir's for free. they're not as good as the ones from mesa and ev but they will give you a good idea of what to expect if you bought a cab from these manufacturers. i have to say, i love the rockman and mark i bass cabs. 5ec8ef588b
