Take into account that numerology can provide very valuable information about ourselves. Basically, it is based on the study of how numbers appear and are used in human lives, which shows us a great deal of information about the universe, the universe is governed by harmonious numerical proportions. You can know who we are, who our parents are, what we like, we do, what we dream about and so on. Numerology is a form of divination that was developed by Pythagoras and was based on the theory that there are numerical relationships between and among things. Numbers are the most basic building block of reality and are the foundation of all observable matter and energy, including our minds. Many of these numbers are special; they are the building blocks of our specific personalities, which must be studied to make correct decisions. Based on ancient and ancient Greek belief systems, as well as the theories that were made and shared by Pythagoras, numerology was more widely known and extensively used by the military and political establishments of the ancient world. Some of the more visible or notable political leaders with a preference for, as well as an affinity for, this practice include King Frederick II of Prussia, Napoleon Bonaparte and the Emperor of Japan, Hirohito. This renowned system of numerology helps to understand the interplay between numbers and people, as well as between the material and spiritual worlds. Numerology is often mistakenly associated with fortune-telling. The Kabala of numbers is the most important book on numerology to come out of Europe in the last century. It was the most successful book on the science of numerology to emerge since then. There is now a clear and widespread recognition of the need for a unified theory of numbers in the context of the Kabala, drawing on the traditions and views of the East and of the West. The author, Sepharial, presents this book in a systematic way. The author draws a clear connection between the study of numbers and a knowledge of the inner mysteries of the universe.

The occult tradition of numerology has its roots in Western societies, and the most common numerological tradition of today is the School of European Numerology and the theory of correspondences with what is currently called 'charting' or a 'numerological chart'. Numerology is the study of the influence of numbers in all aspects of our lives, and if we are to realize the mysteries of its content, we must understand its methodology. In addition, we must determine what to bring to the practice of numerology in order to enjoy its great benefits, and most importantly, we must perform a strict analysis of the number and the day that represents each number in the numerological chart. This, in turn, leads to the creation of a unique, personalized and personal chart, that takes on its main characteristics in the state of the soul and the physical or spiritual state of a person. A must read for all horse racing enthusiasts! A majority of them don't know how useful, even indispensable horary reading is. This is my personal experience. I have used horary reading to analyze a horse who has previously tested unsuccessfully and couldn't place, and more in the recent past, in fact using previous experience and correct horary reading, the horse has been placed or won, enabling me to take her to bigger races. Now you must know I have been a professional horse trainer and owner for over 15 years. My results in horse racing are one of the best in the region, which includes fairly large stakes races. I have placed more than 300 horses. This is the second time I am going to write a blog post for you all. This time I am going to write on How to read Horary - Horary Reading Chart, mainly what is Horary chart, Horary chart symbols, and how to read Horary chart based on what is there in a chart. These steps are the basic in reading Horary chart. I am also going to share few of my personal success stories of horse racing. 5ec8ef588b
