“This is not only a re-imagination of how we will be making reels going forward from PIP, it’s a thing of beauty to create those videos with PIP,” McCraw said. “What we are introducing are features that will allow anyone to make more compelling videos for their content marketing. I have had a few issues with Lightroom, including opening and importing projects that have previously worked. This usually isn’t very disruptive except to say that I sometimes wonder what went wrong and the reason for the situation. I do not always find this information readily available. Sometimes I am given the error message, but that information is not always provided on forums like this one. When there are serious issues, such as in this instance, I find it frustrating to be in the dark and would appreciate being informed of what I may or may not have done to cause a problem.
