Longcat H3D Binaural Spatializer VST.Q: Minimising the distance between points and centring a circle on an angle In the image, what is the shortest distance between the four points as you can see there isn't enough space to fit in a circle. I've looked everywhere online and I can't work out how to go about this! I really would like someone to show me the correct way to calculate the shortest distance between any two points in a right angled triangle. Then I need to make a circle where it sits. Thanks! A: The triangle given is a variant of a right triangle. Since the hypotenuse of a right triangle is always perpendicular to a 45 degree line, the shorter distance between (A,D) and (B,C) is to remove the triangle's height (AC) and use only the base length of the triangle (AD), resulting in a 45 degree angle (as opposed to a 90 degree angle in the original drawing). The distance between (B,C) and (A,D) then is the perpendicular distance of (D,C) to the 45 degree line AB. This same angle-based way of determining the distance between a, and b is also used for solving trigonometric triangles. See here for an example: Q: Existence of a continuous function between two compact spaces If X and Y
