This invention relates to a fish bait such as a spring or night crawler and a fishing lure and to the method of making the bait or lure. The invention is also directed to a fish bait or fishing lure having markings that are useful in determining the presence and position of a fish as well as the color of the blood of the fish. Many species of fish, including bass, are sensitive to the color of the bait. In the past the color of the bait has been indicated by painting the bait with a fluorescent color that may fluoresce when exposed to ultraviolet light.
